Page 1: Half-Title

Pages 1

Illustration Note

Quiet opening image fragment: hat brim, stone texture, or moonlit road detail.

Full Spread

Captain Daniel and the Watchful Dog

Prompt seed: Painterly historical realism for a children's Revolutionary War picture book. Young Daniel Cook, visibly teenage and vulnerable rather than heroic, in blue-gray night ton...

Page 2: Copyright

Page 2: Copyright

Pages 2

Illustration Note

Minimal spot art or open space.

Full Spread

Copyright / publication page

Prompt seed: Painterly historical realism for a children's Revolutionary War picture book. Young Daniel Cook, visibly teenage and vulnerable rather than heroic, in blue-gray night ton...

Page 3: Title Page

Page 3: Title Page

Pages 3

Illustration Note

Young Daniel introduced before the conflict fully begins.

Full Spread

Captain Daniel and the Watchful Dog

Prompt seed: Painterly historical realism for a children's Revolutionary War picture book. Young Daniel Cook, visibly teenage and vulnerable rather than heroic, in blue-gray night ton...

Page 4: Silent Lead-In

Pages 4

Illustration Note

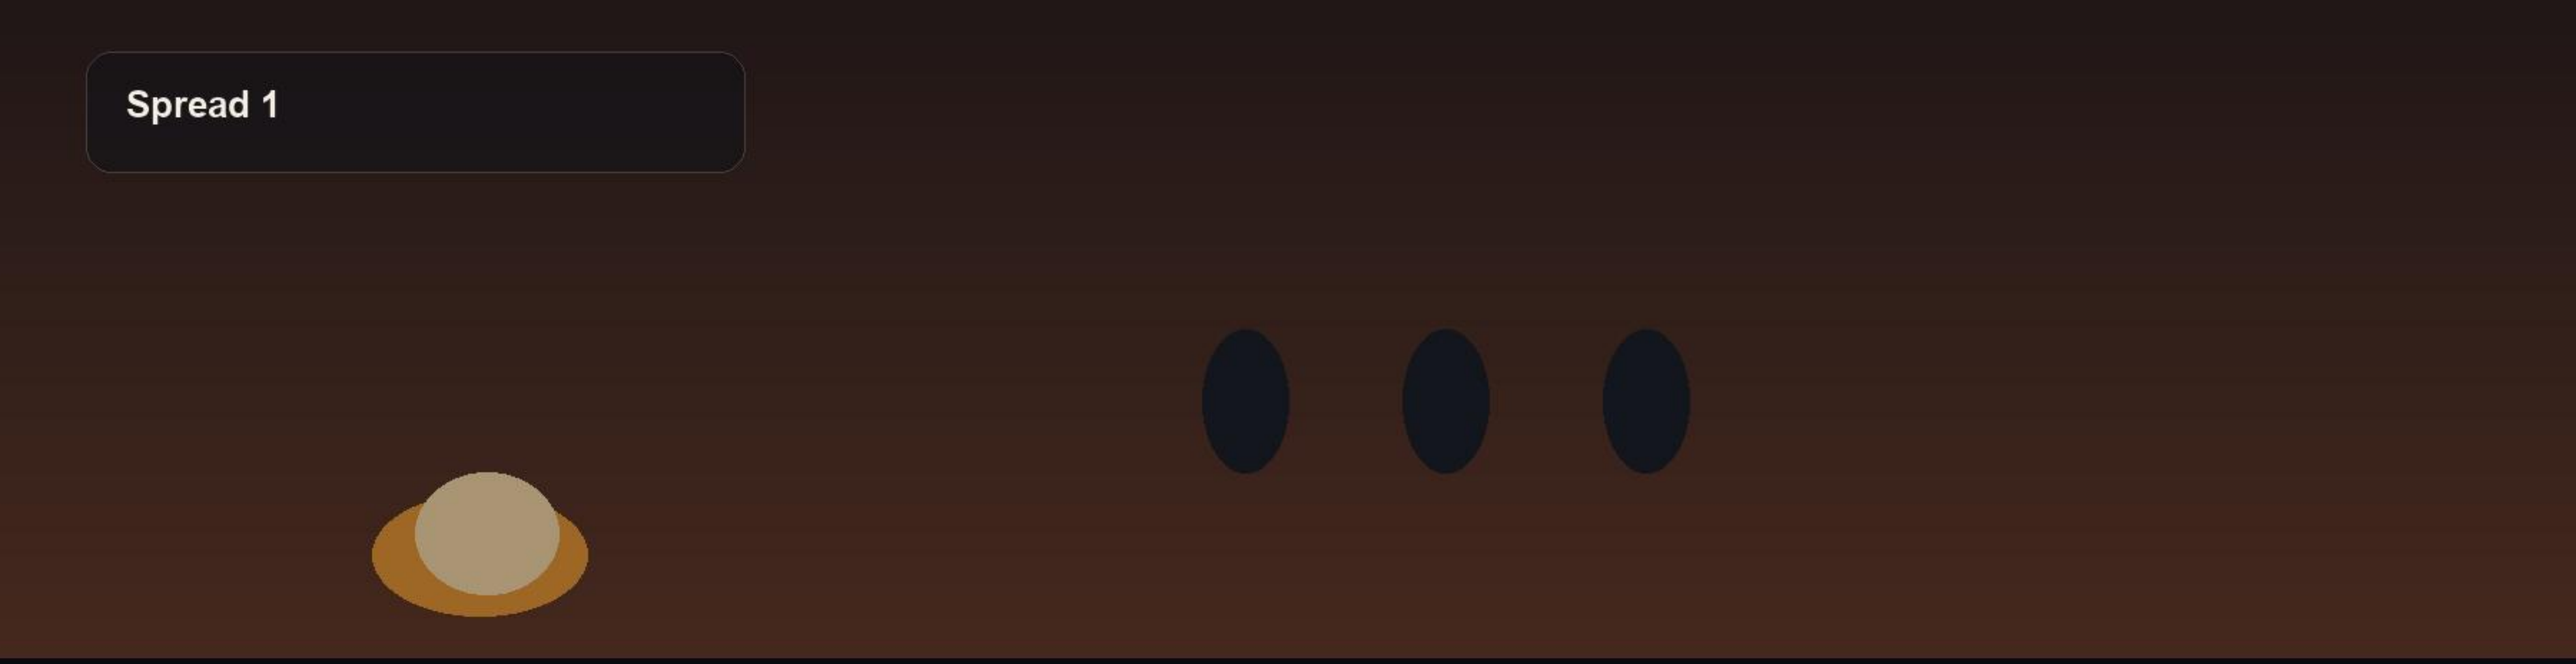
Empty road between high stone walls before the story begins.

Full Spread

Silent image

Prompt seed: Painterly historical realism for a children's Revolutionary War picture book. Young Daniel Cook, visibly teenage and vulnerable rather than heroic, in blue-gray night ton...

Spread 1



Spread 1

Pages 5-6

Illustration Note

Winter camp with hunger already established, soldiers tired and cold.

Left Page

The soldiers were still hungry. Winter had stretched on for weeks.

Right Page

Food was scarce in the camp. At last the captain gave the order.

Prompt seed: Painterly historical realism for a children's Revolutionary War picture book. Young Daniel Cook, visibly teenage and vulnerable rather than heroic, in blue-gray night ton...

Spread 2

Spread 2

Pages 7-8

Illustration Note

Use the established Book 1 visual language.

Left Page

"Go out and take some Tory's chickens," he said, "or anything you can find."

Right Page

The soldiers knew of a man nearby who had food. But the Tory guarded his house carefully.

Prompt seed: Painterly historical realism for a children's Revolutionary War picture book. Young Daniel Cook, visibly teenage and vulnerable rather than heroic, in blue-gray night ton...

Spread 3

Spread 3

Pages 9-10

Illustration Note

Tory house in darkness, the bulldog a looming presence near the yard.

Left Page

He kept a large bulldog to watch the yard.

Right Page

No one could come near in the night without waking the beast.

Prompt seed: Painterly historical realism for a children's Revolutionary War picture book. Young Daniel Cook, visibly teenage and vulnerable rather than heroic, in blue-gray night ton...

Spread 4

Spread 4

Pages 11-12

Illustration Note

Use the established Book 1 visual language.

Left Page

So the soldiers made a plan. Daniel Cook would stand guard.

Right Page

The others would slip quietly toward the bee house and the barns to see what food they might find.

Prompt seed: Painterly historical realism for a children's Revolutionary War picture book. Young Daniel Cook, visibly teenage and vulnerable rather than heroic, in blue-gray night ton...

Spread 5

Spread 5

Pages 13-14

Illustration Note

Use the established Book 1 visual language.

Left Page

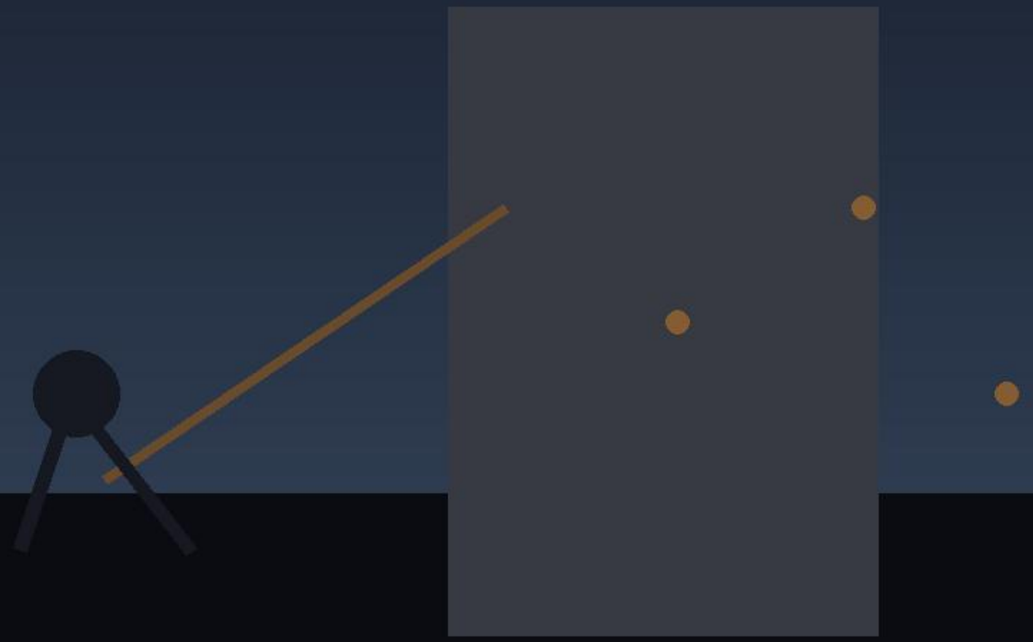
The night was dark. The air was cold. Daniel walked slowly toward the house.

Right Page

For a moment everything was still.

Prompt seed: Painterly historical realism for a children's Revolutionary War picture book. Young Daniel Cook, visibly teenage and vulnerable rather than heroic, in blue-gray night ton...

Spread 6



Spread 6

Pages 15-16

Illustration Note

Major action spread: bulldog bursting out of the darkness toward Daniel.

Left Page

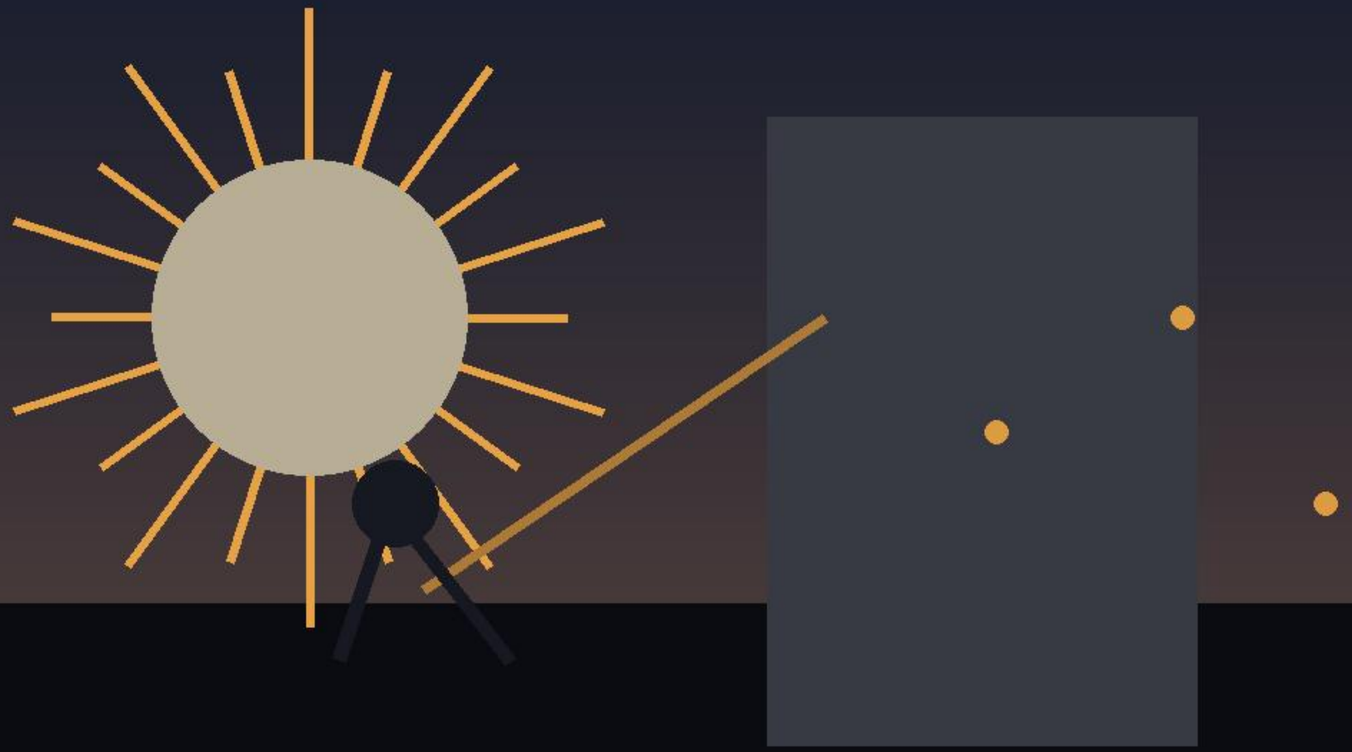
Then the dog came. It rushed from the darkness in a great fury.

Right Page

Daniel saw at once that he must defend himself.

Prompt seed: Painterly historical realism for a children's Revolutionary War picture book. Young Daniel Cook, visibly teenage and vulnerable rather than heroic, in blue-gray night ton...

Spread 7



Spread 7

Pages 17-18

Illustration Note

Use the established Book 1 visual language.

Left Page

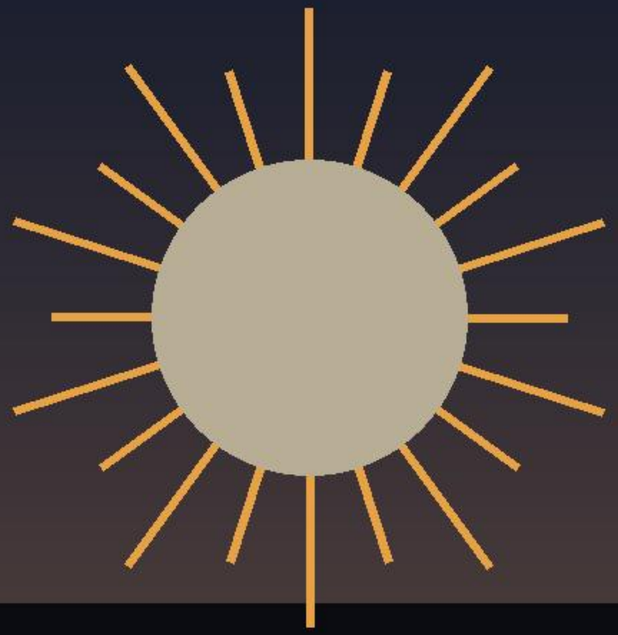
He raised his musket and fired. The dog fell.

Right Page

The shot brought the Tory to the door in a rage.

Prompt seed: Painterly historical realism for a children's Revolutionary War picture book. Young Daniel Cook, visibly teenage and vulnerable rather than heroic, in blue-gray night ton...

Spread 8



Spread 8

Pages 19-20

Illustration Note

Daniel in cold night light, steady while the angry Tory leans from the doorway.

Left Page

He shouted to know why the soldier had fired.

Right Page

Daniel answered calmly.

Prompt seed: Painterly historical realism for a children's Revolutionary War picture book. Young Daniel Cook, visibly teenage and vulnerable rather than heroic, in blue-gray night ton...

Spread 9

Spread 9

Pages 21-22

Illustration Note

Use the established Book 1 visual language.

Left Page

He told the man he had shot the dog because every time he stood guard he was in danger of being torn to pieces.

Right Page

The old Tory scolded and complained.

Prompt seed: Painterly historical realism for a children's Revolutionary War picture book. Young Daniel Cook, visibly teenage and vulnerable rather than heroic, in blue-gray night ton...

Spread 10

Spread 10

Pages 23-24

Illustration Note

Use the established Book 1 visual language.

Left Page

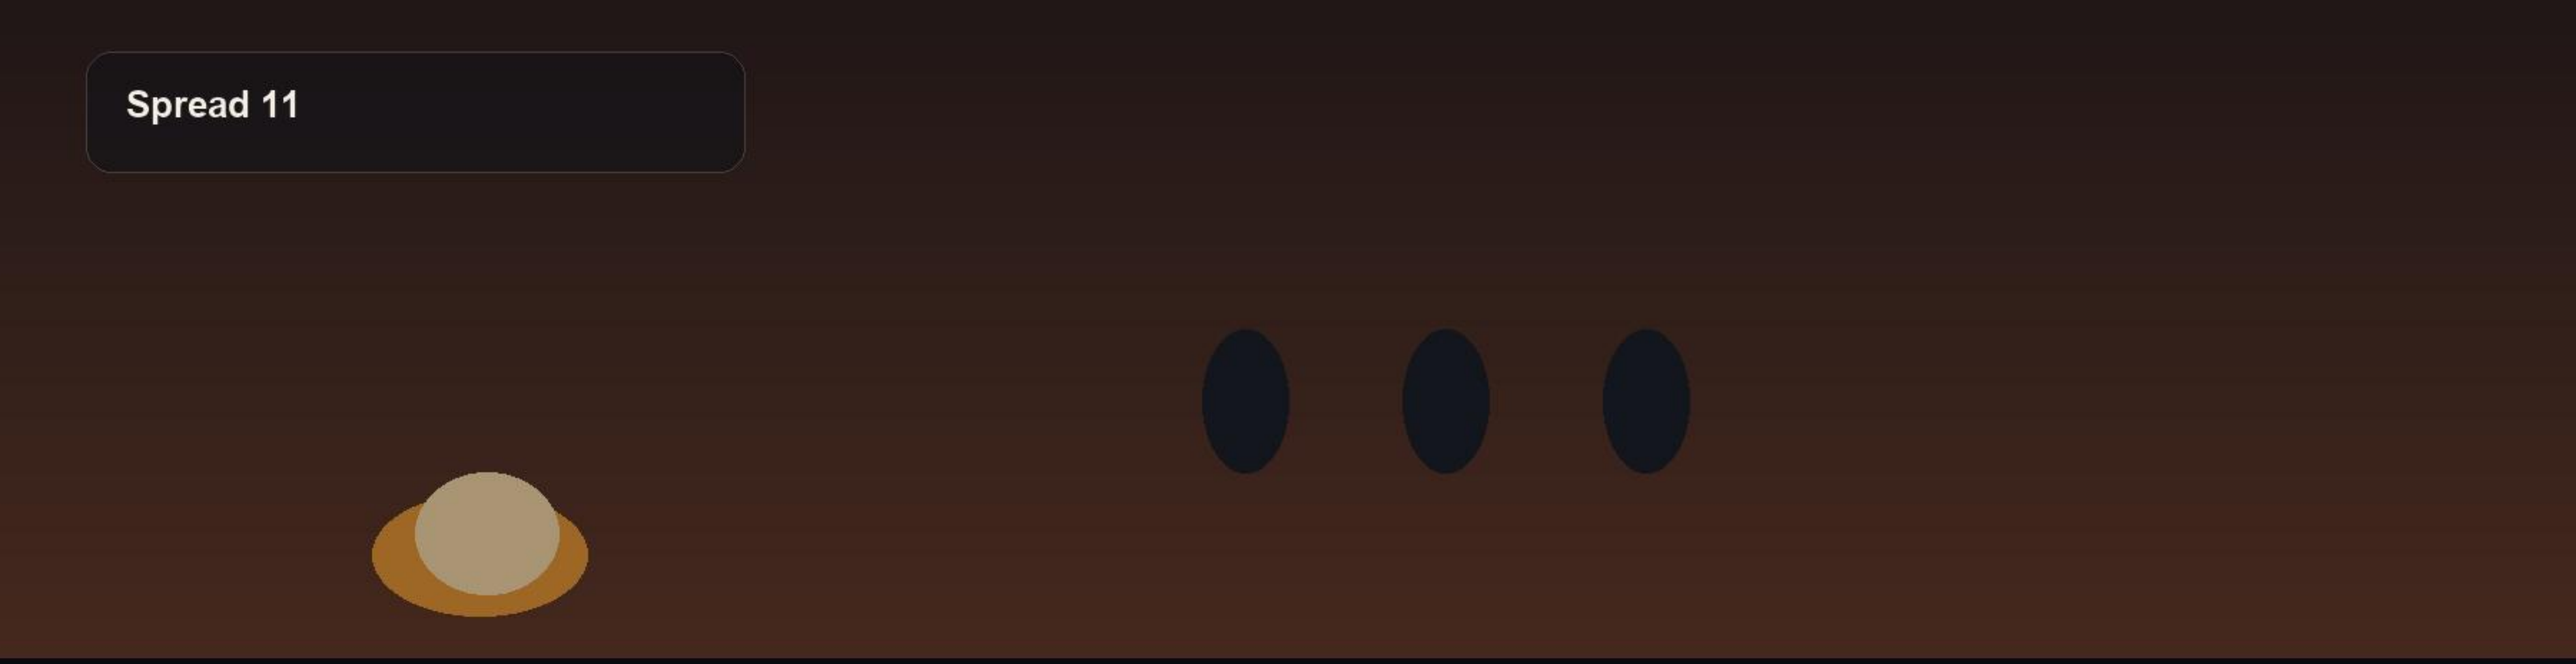
Daniel listened. He stood in the cold and spoke with him for some time.

Right Page

At last the Tory turned and went back inside.

Prompt seed: Painterly historical realism for a children's Revolutionary War picture book. Young Daniel Cook, visibly teenage and vulnerable rather than heroic, in blue-gray night ton...

Spread 11



Spread 11

Pages 25-26

Illustration Note

Transition spread, Daniel returning through darkness while the reader anticipates the reveal.

Left Page

When Daniel returned to camp he discovered something.

Right Page

While the Tory had been arguing with him outside in the cold...

Prompt seed: Painterly historical realism for a children's Revolutionary War picture book. Young Daniel Cook, visibly teenage and vulnerable rather than heroic, in blue-gray night ton...

Spread 12

Spread 12

Pages 27-28

Illustration Note

Use the established Book 1 visual language.

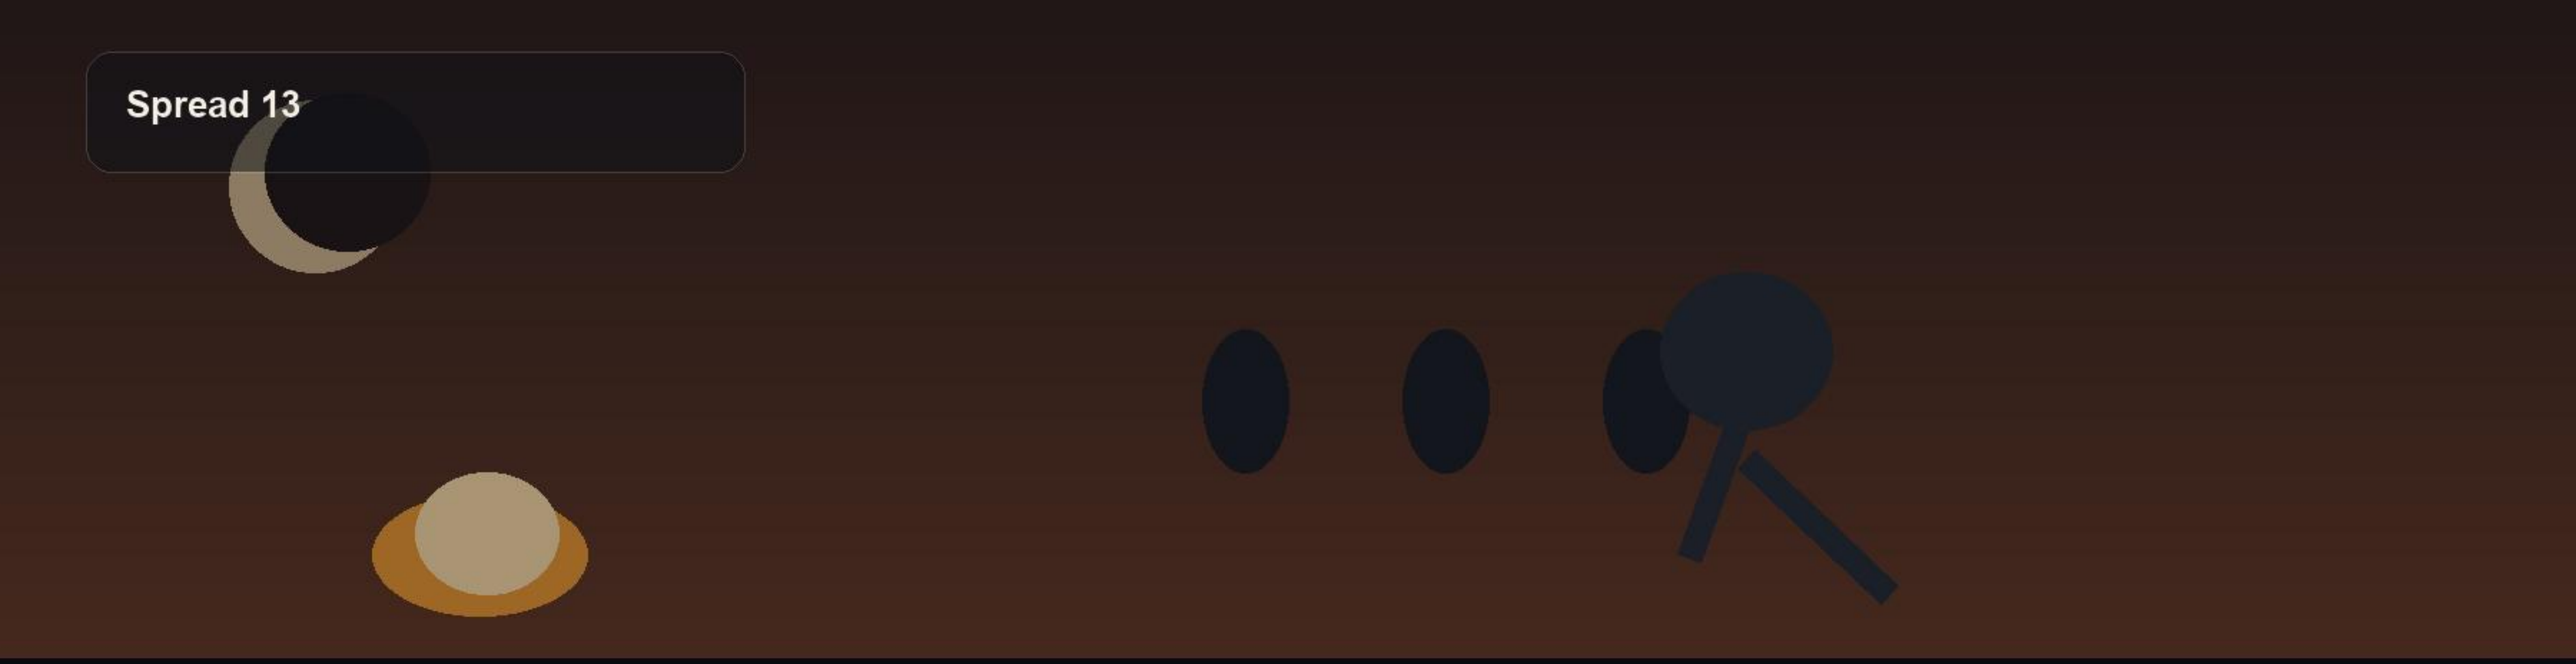
Left Page

the other soldiers had slipped into the bee house.

Right Page

And they had taken honey.

Prompt seed: Painterly historical realism for a children's Revolutionary War picture book. Young Daniel Cook, visibly teenage and vulnerable rather than heroic, in blue-gray night ton...



Spread 13

Pages 29-30

Illustration Note

Wide reflective spread, Daniel small against the night, Tory at the doorway, bee house or camp implied in the distance.

Full Spread

Daniel had stood in the dark and held the old man there--

Prompt seed: Painterly historical realism for a children's Revolutionary War picture book. Young Daniel Cook, visibly teenage and vulnerable rather than heroic, in blue-gray night ton...

Spread 14

Spread 14

Pages 31-32

Illustration Note

Final quiet image, perhaps soldiers carrying the stolen honey back through the dark or a simple honey-glow in darkness.

Full Spread

long enough for the others to come away with sweetness in a hungry winter.

Prompt seed: Painterly historical realism for a children's Revolutionary War picture book. Young Daniel Cook, visibly teenage and vulnerable rather than heroic, in blue-gray night ton...